

Chicago's Green City Winter Market
Now Indoors at Notebaert Nature Museum
Wednesdays & Saturdays, November & December

Who: Taking its fresh approach to knowing your food/knowing your farmer indoors, Chicago's Green City Market continues through December.

What: Chicago's Green City Winter Market supports local farmers who take care of their land and work hard to offer wholesome and delicious ingredients that shoppers can feel good about feeding their family – and holiday gifts they can feel good about giving.

Shoppers will find the very best produce from Midwest family farms, such as squash, apples, fresh greens, crisp spinach and cranberries, as well as meats, poultry, breads and other baked goods, artisan cheeses, mushrooms, and many more culinary delights to celebrate the season, including the holidays. There will be ongoing chef demonstrations and educational programs for adults and children.

Where: North Gallery, Notebaert Nature Museum
2430 N. Cannon Drive, Chicago

When: In November, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.: Wednesdays, Nov. 8, 15 and 22; Saturdays, Nov. 4, 11 and 18
In December, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.: Wednesdays, Dec. 6, 13 and 20; Saturdays, Dec. 2, 9, 16 and 23

Visuals & Story Leads:

- Holiday food selection and cooking tips, gift suggestions and decorating ideas.
- Interview with Abby Mandel, Chicago's Green City Market founder, and participating farmers about "the business behind the market."
- Chicago area's best chefs provide cooking demonstrations at 10:30 a.m. each day of the Market. Coming up: Carrie Nahabedian, Naha, comfort foods, Nov. 4; Janine MacLachlan, The Rustic Kitchen, root vegetable pot pie, Nov. 8; Vince DiBattista, Campagnola, Italian Thanksgiving, Nov. 11. Ahead: Charlie Trotter, Saturday, Nov. 18.

Media Contacts:

Sue Markgraf, 847-970-9160 or suemarkgrafpr@comcast.net for Chicago's Green City Winter Market; Amanda Golucki, 773-755-5192 or agolucki@naturemuseum.org for Notebaert Nature Museum.

###